

Key and asset accountability for Canadian Law Enforcement

Gear, weapons, exhibits and vehicle keys on one platform. Every release and return is recorded against the member who made it, at the cabinet — so the record is created by the transaction, not written up afterwards.

Accountability your officers can prove

Intelligent locker, key control and evidence solutions for Canadian police services.

Gear sits on open shelves. Vehicle keys hang on a pegboard next to a paper sign-out sheet. Evidence gets logged by hand, when someone remembers. For a police service that is not an admin nuisance — it is liability.

- Qualification enforced at the locker door
- One platform, four workflows
- Integrates with your access control and RMS

Intelligent lockers for gear, weapons and exhibits

- Four workflows in one cabinet bank, not four separate systems.
- Release tied to qualification. Lapsed means the door stays shut.
- Pass-through exhibit intake, around the clock.

KeyTracer

Electronic key cabinets for vehicles, buildings and cells

- Keys released to a member, not to a hook, and the release is recorded.
- Overdue returns visible by name and by shift, before end of shift.
- Rugged RFID key fobs, with a lifetime warranty.

The route to faster, cheaper procurement in Ontario

Your service can buy from Real Time Networks without running a full competitive RFP. The Waterloo Regional contract was competitively awarded and carries a co-operative clause, so eligible services use its pricing and terms.
